Seaside students participate in Black History Week

Students in the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District observed Black History Week last week with a host of activities.

The theme of the week, which also coincided with the birth of Abraham Lincoln, was "Liberty, Brotherhood, and Equality."

At Seaside High School, students heard an address by

The Rev. Al Belton before a concert by the Youth and Young Adult Choir of Bethel Baptist Church last Monday. Community guests selected and recruited by students visited classes, and awards were made in the literary contest for poetry, biography, and short stories. And daily noontime activities in the Greek Theatre highlighted the week.

Martin Luther King Junior High School was host to black professional classroom visitors Monday, and students listened to the Seaside Community Choir Tuesday in the multi-use room. Afro costumes and dancing were featured Thursday, and awards were also presented for poetry, art, and history in a general assembly Friday. At Fitch Junior High School, all during the previous week students took part in tapes of ethnic music, singing, speakers, literature, films and slides, black poetry, and concentration on the lives of Martin Luther King, Jr., George Washington Carver, Frederick Douglass, and Harriet Tubman. Students also engaged in special library research and art displays. Manzanita School students enjoyed a singing presentation by The Rev. Al Belton and had a performance by the Seaside Community Choir and the Martin Luther King Junior High School modern dance group.

Sixth-grade students at Lone Olson School researched the lives of famous blacks and then read short biographical sketches of those individuals in other classes in school. Prints of outstanding blacks were exhibited and selections emphasizing the contributions of blacks were read to primary classes.

At La Mesa School, sixth-grade students presented a play, "Long, Long Road to Freedom," based on the story of Harriet Tubman, presented under the direction of Mrs. Rose DeBerry. The play was presented for other students from fourth through sixth grades, also.

And at Crumpton School, primary students heard a concert by the Youth and Young Adults Choirs of Bethel Baptist Church, under the direction of Marvin McKnight.

Fort Ord soldier given Soldier's Medal award

Good news never travels quite as fast as "bad" but it finally caught up with Capt. Maynard R. Jean, Commander of B Company, 1st Battalion, 3d Brigade at Fort Ord after a three-year chase.

Capt. Jean was awarded the Soldier's Medal last Thursday, during 3d Brigade graduation ceremonies. The award, presented by Brig. Gen. Edward M. Markham III, Fort Ord's deputy commanding general, was for Jean's heroic act in saving Petty Officer James L. Long from drowning off del Monte beach, on May 24, 1973.

The citation that accompanied the award read, in part:

"At approximately 1445 hours, then First Lieutenant

Jean noted a group of people excitedly pointing out into the ocean and shouting that a man was drowning. After sighting a man struggling weakly in the heavy swells, he quickly removed his coat and rushed into the surf, with an air mattress from off the beach.

"While shouting encouragement to the struggling man, Lt. Jean pushed 200 yards through a strong rip tide to reach Long, then tried to lift him onto the mattress. Long was too weak to stay on so Lt. Jean wrapped Long's arms around the mattress and held his head above the waves.

"Realizing that any attempt to swim back to shore would be fruitless and probably fatal, Lt. Jean supported Long for about 15 minutes until the Coast Guard rescue boat was able to pull both exhausted men to safety.

"Lieutenant Jean's decisive actions were clearly responsible for saving the near victim's life. He risked his own life by willingly and unhesitatingly swimming into the chill and dangerous surf, and once there his cool-headed actions gave further evidence of his complete control over a dangerous situation."

How does the modest captain react to all this?

"There was one fact that wasn't mentioned in the account," Jean recalled with a wry chuckle. "When I took off my boots and coat, I also left my wallet with them. When I returned for my clothes, the wallet was gone."

Peninsula United Fund campaign exceeds goal

The Monterey Peninsula United Fund awards dinner held last week was highlighted by two events. The first was the announcement that the 1974 UF campaign grossed a record $260,137, exceeding the 1973 total of $252,311. And the dinner was the occasion for the election of the UF officers for 1975.

Robert C. Pelz, the 1974 president, introduced his successor, James C. Glaser, last year's vice president and campaign chairman. Glaser, who is the president of Del Monte Realty Co. also headed the UF committee that sponsored the 1974 Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance.

Accepting the gavel, Glaser praised Pelz for his leadership during the record-breaking year. "We had an excellent year," he said, "mainly due to Bob's organization. He pulled all the pieces of this complex United Fund puzzle together so that it made our work that much easier."

Pelz also lauded Glaser for his accomplishments, citing his dedication as chairman of the campaign.

"With all the turmoil in today's economy," Pelz said, "it is very gratifying to realize that we surpassed our goal, a feat that is largely due to Jim's many tireless hours of work." Both joined in congratulations to Gil Funston, UF's executive director, for helping them throughout the year.

One of the major awards presented went to Army Col. Charles Grandellie, for his devoted service as chairman of the federal committee of the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). The CFC makes a leading contribution to the local UF campaign every year.

Pacific Telephone's Communications Workers of America also received an award, for the greatest percentage increase in contributions in the campaign's personnel division, some $1,967 more than their 1973 total.

Other officers for 1975 are Donald Southard, affiliated with Dean Witter & Co., who will serve as vice president, and Robert C. Littlefield of Monterey Savings and Loan, who was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer.

New board members in-

Local artists donate works to art auction

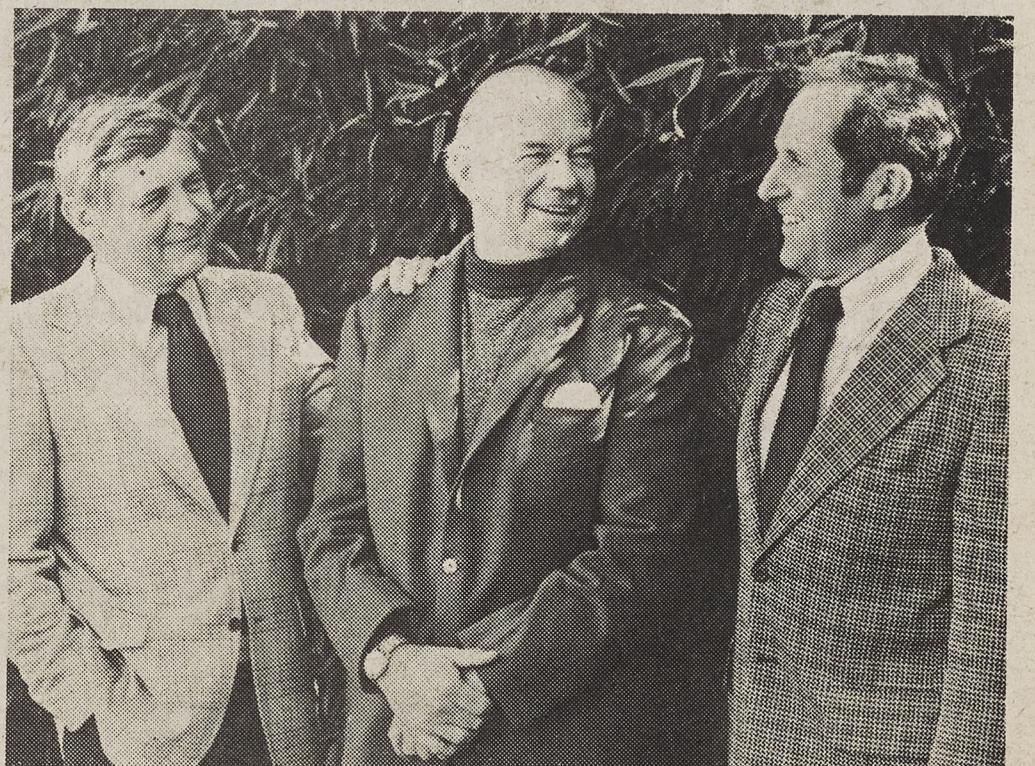

Many nationally and internationally known local artists have volunteered to donate at least one of their works to the Monterey Peninsula Jaycees sponsored art auction on Sunday, Feb. 23 at Quail Lodge in Carmel Valley.

All money realized through the auction will be donated to the Monterey County S.P.C.A. The auction will begin at 12:30 p.m. and continue through 5 p.m.

'Renewal Retreat' planned

The second YWCA "Renewal Retreat" -- a weekend away from all cares and responsibilities is scheduled for Feb. 28 to March 2 at Big Sur Lodge in Big Sur. The $20 fee includes meals, massages, housing, beautiful setting and an opportunity to communicate with others and yourself.

Women of all ages and background are invited to participate in the environment of friendship, warmth, and release. Bring a brown paper supper for Friday evening, any craft projects you are working on, books for reading and boots for hiking. Beds and linens are provided by the Lodge. All cooking and cleaning is done by the YWCA, you provide yourself.

FORMER SEASIDE MAYOR John Pattullo (center) received congratulations recently for his election as secretary-treasurer of the Independent Insurance Agents of the Monterey Peninsula. Serving with him during 1975 will be Les Stegeman, vice president (left) and President Lou Allaire. The new board of directors includes Harry Weiler, Bob Massaro, Matt Little, John Mahoney, Jr., and Chris Spaulding.

CAPT. MAYNARD R. JEAN was awarded the Soldier's Medal by Brig. Gen. Edward M. Markham III, Deputy Commanding General of Fort Ord, for heroic action in saving the life of a Navy Petty Officer at Del Monte beach in Monterey.

SEASIDE SPOTLIGHT: Charles Y. Lee

'It's my hope we can get an art center here'

Charles Y. Lee has been a tireless promoter of the fine arts in Seaside for nearly a decade, during which he has served as chairman of the Seaside Art Commission.

In that capacity, Lee has been instrumental in bringing a series of monthly exhibits of paintings, drawings, sculpture, and other arts to Seaside City Hall. He has also arranged and directed art tours of San Francisco for area residents, designed to give an appreciation of both Chinese culture and art and gallery art.

Without fear of exaggeration, it might be said that Lee has been an elemental, practically volcanic, force for the arts in Seaside. And despite some seemingly insurmountable obstacles to acceptance, the arts have advanced, Lee feels.

"Judging from our annual art competitive, which is open to Seaside, Fort Ord, Del Rey Oaks, Marina, and Sand City, we're discovering more talent in this area," Lee said.

"It's my hope that the quality will improve so that we can get an art center here eventually."

Lee takes particular pride in the fact that Seaside's City Hall has had an exhibit of Chinese art each year during the Chinese New Year for nine years—more than any other art gallery on the Monterey Peninsula.

This year, the Year of the Hare, an exhibit of the works of San Jose artist I-Chen Wu adorns the hallways, and Lee plans to take yet another busload of area residents to San Francisco to learn about everything from chopsticks to Chinese brush strokes.

Lee has been a resident of Seaside since 1960, but he came to the Monterey Peninsula in 1951, when he became a professor of Chinese for the Defense Language Institute in Monterey. He also taught art and mathematics for Monterey Peninsula College's evening division, and has instructed in English as a second language, art and citizenship for Carmel, Pacific Grove, and Salinas public schools.

He now holds a full-time position as art instructor at Alisal High School in Salinas and is an instructor with the adult school both Monterey and Pacific Grove. He pointed out with a grin that his "fourth job" with the Seaside Art Commission is volunteer.

As if that isn't enough to keep him busy, Lee has also been involved as a consultant to the Girls Scouts, Cub Scouts, and as coordinator of art festivals and exhibits since 1966.

Lee is a native of Willows, located near Red Bluff, and was a double major in art and Oriental languages at the University of California, Berkeley. He holds two master's degrees, one in art education from Berkeley and another in education administration from San Jose State University.

He also has studied in postgraduate work in San Francisco, San Jose, Fullerton, and in Formosa, China.

His activities haven't been limited to the Monterey Peninsula, either. Since 1962, Lee has been the advisor, sponsor and teacher for a Chinese culture club in Salinas.

Lee also manages to find time to do his own water colors and calligraphy.

"Every three months we have a lecture-demonstration in city hall by area artists," he said, "and from 25 to 100 people attend, free to the public." Lee believes that's one indication of the headway the arts have made in Seaside.

Even though there has been much discussion in this country about "detente" with China and the communist nations since communications were opened by state visits, Lee doesn't think that, in itself, is likely to have a profound effect upon American art.

"Oriental art has influenced Western art for centuries and will continue to do so," he observed. "The open door to China doesn't make that much difference. Western art has also influenced Oriental."

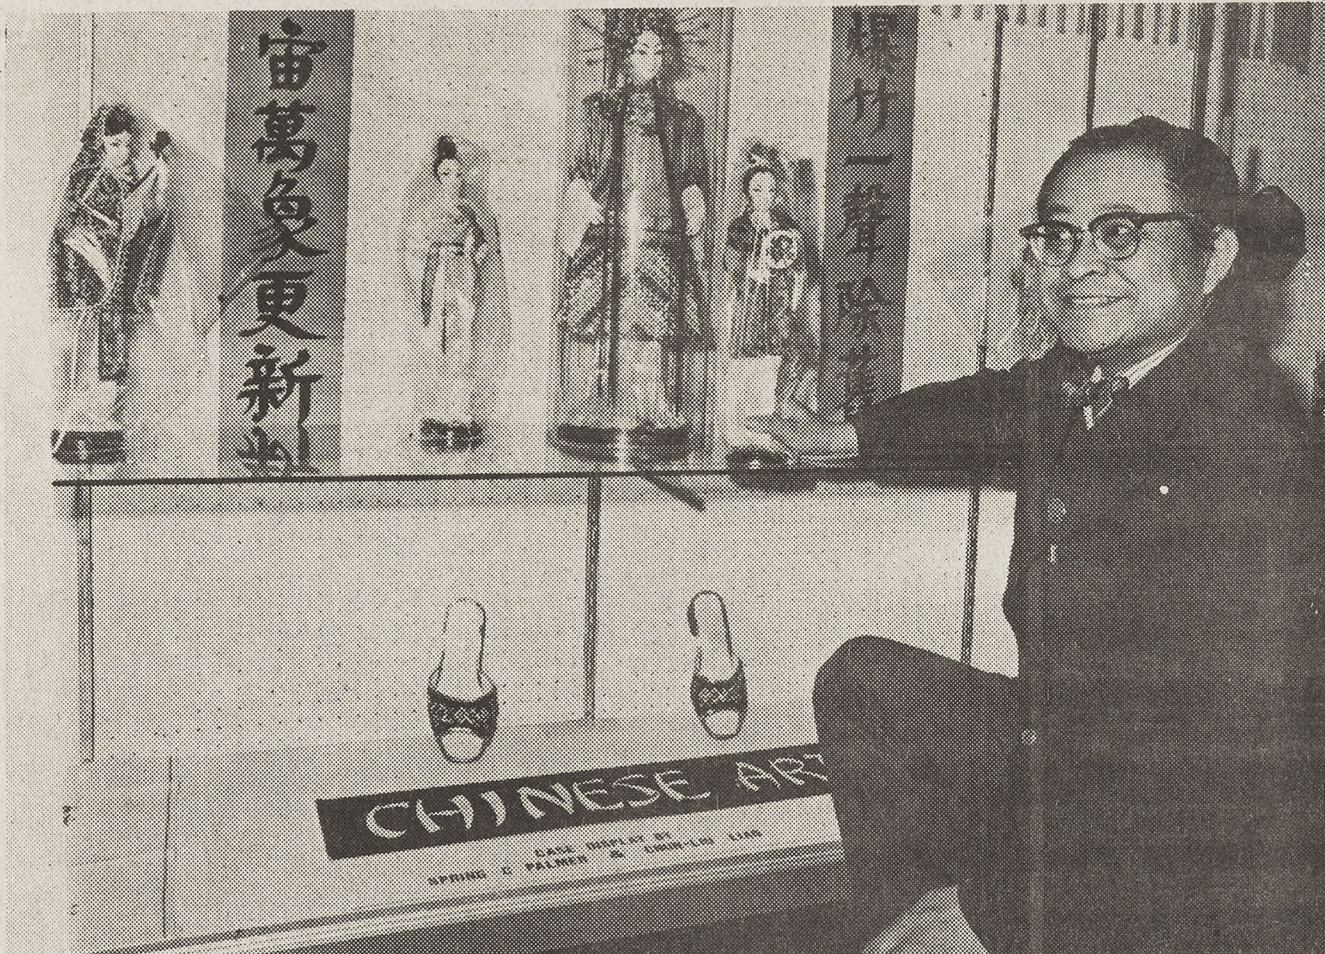

"Many modern Chinese artists," for example, are more inclined to do abstractions because of the influence of Western artists, even though they remain within the old traditions."

Lee is gratified, too, that the public schools have made a big effort to promote the arts and appreciation of them. He requires his own classes to visit the city hall exhibits regularly as part of their education.

Nevertheless, participation in and appreciation of the arts in Seaside hasn't always been as great as Lee and others might wish for.

"A few artists and commission members have been trying to educate the people to understand and appreciate modern art," he said. "But the majority of the people still prefer traditional art."

As a member of the Seaside Bicentennial Commission, Lee has proposed that starting in July, the city hall feature monthly exhibits highlighting the contributions of the various ethnic groups to American art. His feeling is that art is universal, but that the contributions of the different groups in this country should be emphasized.

Volunteer Services sets goal

Requests for funds, projects to provide them, and introduction of 1975 committees constituted the February meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services at the U.S.O.

The Visiting Nurse Association asked to be the beneficiary of the M.P.V.S. 22nd Annual House and Garden Tour to be held Wednesday May 7. V.N.A. celebrates its Silver Anniversary this year.

The American Field Service of Pacific Grove requested $250 to help defray expenses of a Foreign student exchange. The Y.W.C.A. appealed for $500 for emergency expenses incurred by their move from the U.S.O. building and relocation of their facilities in the Lyceum building, Carmel. In addition they requested use of the M.P.V.S. Thrift Shop in Seaside for the first two weeks in March to sell their collected merchandise to raise funds for their Nursery and educational programs.

The M.P.V.S. membership voted approval of these projects and expenditures.

The wheels of government need some lubrication

(EDITORIAL)

The sparse crowd which attended the last Seaside City Council meeting was treated to a rare display of personal venom which overshadowed all else of legitimate municipal concern.

First, Councilman Oscar Lawson took Mayor B.J. Dolan to task for his public assertion that he intends to exercise his right under state law to make all appointments to city commissions and agencies himself. The issue arose when, making reference to a statement appearing in this newspaper by the mayor, Lawson charged Dolan with seeking to assume the powers of a "tyrant."

Dolan defended himself on grounds that he was only trying to do what state law requires him to do: in a general law city, such as Seaside, where the mayor is elected by popular vote rather than by vote of the city council, he must make all appointments to city commissions himself.

Before Lawson could actually commit a slander, he was reminded by other councilmen, especially Councilman Steve Ross, that any appointments made by the mayor would be subject to the ratification of the full council and, thus, totalitarian power of the kind Lawson objected to would be an impossibility.

Then, Dolan countered by lambasting Lawson for the latter's request for a list of all recently-hired Seaside city employees. Lawson maintained that he wanted such a list to check on the residences of those hired, since it is his conviction that Seaside residents ought to be given first priority. But Dolan said he had been told by one employee that he considered having his name and address listed was "an invasion of privacy," and the mayor was displeased about that.

Dolan also requested the city attorney to make a thorough review of all campaign finance disclosures filed in the last election under the Waxman-Dymally Act for possible irregularities. This provoked a torrent of criticism for other councilmen, especially Councilman Joe Cota, who protested that such an action would be unfair to Councilman Oscar Lawson, who is now involved in litigation over that law.

Again, Councilman Steve Ross stepped in and sought to maintain some degree of equilibrium and dignity among his feuding fellows by pointing out that the mayor had a right to request such information, even if it was not granted, as it appears it will not be.

No one expects a city council or any other collection of human beings, with diverse personalities and priorities, to function as smoothly as a Swiss watch eternally. But the type of vendetta-mentality which was displayed at the last city council meeting was more than petty and vindictive: it was ugly.

Gentlemen of the city council, when you look out across an empty council chamber and lament that the public seems so disinterested in your deliberations that no one attends the meetings, think again. It just might be that they're turned off by such childish backbiting. They might find television a soothing balm after spending their day contending with just that kind of nonsense. Possibility they don't know how to say that they expect a little more from their elected officials. R.M.

Ask your congressman: Views from Washington

By BURT L. TALCOTT
16th District Congressman

More than a year ago when the administration was considering implementing a gasoline rationing program to alleviate the oil shortage engendered by the Middle East embargo, the Congress wisely denied President Nixon the rationing option. The Congress agreed that it would be inequitable, corruptive, expensive and largely ineffective—even as a short term measure.

President Ford recently expressed his opposition to gasoline rationing and has explained that such a stopgap program will not solve the long-term problem of energy shortfalls. This nation must concentrate its effort on energy conservation rather than diverting attention to halfway measures. Rationing will only inconvenience consumers without offering a workable solution.

The public should be aware that rationing would: Create an artificial shortage inciting people to beat the system rather than to conserve fuel.

Require a complex, expensive, and at best a short term solution necessitating four to six months to implement, about 15 to 25,000 full-time people and $2 billion in federal costs, using 40,000 Post Offices for distribution and requiring 3,000 state and local boards to handle "exceptions."

Require gasoline stations to maintain limited service hours because the proprietors will only have limited quantities of fuel to sell.

In spite of valid arguments against rationing, the leadership of the Congress (the same people who originally denied the validity of rationing) is now favoring this approach. "Frustration politics" are obviously being exercised to prevent Congressional approval of President Ford's energy programs. I had hoped that adversary politics would be forsaken by the 94th Congress in the interests of resolving our current difficulties and long-range problems. It is essential that we unite to meet the challenges. A political reversal by the majority leadership and the implementation of rationing will be self-defeating in the long term.

The 16th Congressional District would be especially hard-hit by a rationing program. Our people in every occupation must travel long distances; we need fuel reserves to operate our farm machinery, for fertilizer, for heating in the floriculture industry; and our tourist business and utilities are also dependent upon petroleum products. Rationing would unfairly hinder mobility and would force gasoline users to bear the whole burden of the energy shortfall.

A program of gasoline rationing would be harmful for the country and especially detrimental in our area. I oppose rationing when it was first proposed during the oil embargo, and I do now. The better answer to the energy shortfall lies in conservation of resources not limited allocation of those available. Congress must also encourage the development of alternate domestic sources rather than focus attention solely on the distribution of fossil fuels.

Rustin's column:

By BAYARD RUSTIN

Recent events have demonstrated how thoroughly confused our national leadership is. In the midst of the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression, President Ford has asked for additional sacrifices from those who have sacrificed enough already—workers, the poor, the unemployed.

We are told that unemployment, which stands at nearly 13 per cent in the black community, will climb even higher before the year's end. And according to the President's grand strategy, we are not to expect a significant decrease in joblessness for three years. Indeed, we are assured that the President will vigorously oppose those measures—such as massive public employment programs—which represent the only way of getting the country back to work.

But that is not all. There is to be no new spending for social services, and, in some areas, social programs are to be cut. Thus federal spending for welfare is to be cut at the very time that economic collapse is forcing more and more persons to the relief rolls. As more people are unemployed, and thus without the protection of medical insurance, we are told that National Health Insurance must wait. With the housing industry deeply in depression, with constructing workers out of work and the cities rotting away, we are told that housing programs must also be postponed.

Truly, the Ford program is not a grand strategy, but a grand illusion.

It is clear that black people can expect nothing more from the Ford Administration than the most superficial gesture: the President has shown himself most open and accessible to all

Leadership is confused about economic policies viewpoints. But when push comes to shove, when hard decisions of economic policy must be made, the Ford prescription has proven to be no easier to swallow than that of Richard Nixon.

What the administration is saying is that nothing can be done—hardship will be a fact of American life for the rest of the decade. This is the assumption that underlies all the policy decisions Ford has made, and it is an assumption which must be resisted by all people of good will.

But what is the alternative? Does anyone have a program to deal with depression, raging unemployment, and the collapse of our cities?

The answer is, quite simply, that of all the forces in society, only the labor movement is addressing the problems of inequality and injustice in a comprehensive and systematic way. Only labor has a program to put people to work, ensure a measure of justice for the unemployed worker and the family on welfare, regenerate the housing industry, and overhaul the health care system.

The details of labor's program were pieced together by the AFL-CIO's General Board, which consists of each of the presidents of the federation's affiliated unions. The significance of the program for black people is that the issues addressed by organized labor are precisely those issues which are of most vital concern to blacks and other minorities.

First and foremost is the issue of unemployment. The AFL-CIO calls for "immediate, massive federal efforts to create jobs for the unemployed." Among the specific demands are a public jobs program which would provide one million additional public service jobs in 1976, a doubling of the youth summer job program, and heavy federal investment in public works projects as a means of stimulating jobs.

The AFL-CIO also proposes tax cuts which go well beyond the level proposed by President Ford, and which would provide the most benefit to poor and middle income workers. The revitalization of the federal housing effort, a federal program to ensure that health care is provided to workers who have lost their jobs and the medical insurance that goes with them, and the extension and improvement of unemployment compensation programs are demanded.

In addition, there is strong opposition to the proposed increase in the price of food stamps.

Labor has proposed a program designed, in the AFL-CIO's words, "to put Americans back to work," a program, in other words, to deal with the most dangerous situation American has faced in the post-war period.

It is no coincidence that the program spelled out by organized labor parallels the agenda of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, an organization responsible for pressing the needs of minority Americans in Congress. For if the goals and needs of the black community have historically mirrored those of labor, this is more true today than ever before.

The choice of allies is not something that is made for abstract reasons: it is determined by common goals and common needs and the commitment of an ally to join with you in struggle to achieve them. At a time when so much of society is confused, when loss of will and purpose are prevalent, it is encouraging to know that at least one force has the clear vision and the strength of conviction to fight for its needs, and the needs of black Americans.

Watercolors displayed at Evans Gallery

On display in the Marjorie Evans Gallery will be an exhibit of some 30 watercolors and oils by the Kentucky artist, Gerry Bosch. Henderson, Ky., was one of the last homes of J. J. Audubon and Bosch has access to one of the first portfolios and original drawings of this great naturalist and artist.

Also, Bosch's Mother and teachers greatly encouraged him to pursue a career in art. He studied in Chicago, St. Louis, New York, and went on to Europe to study in Vienna, Budapest, Warsaw, and finally with Andrew L'Hote. Picasso helped him obtain a Carnegie scholarship grant for further training in Scandinavia and France.

Designer, draftsman, ceramicist, painter. Gerry Bosch excels in all of these areas and this collection bears witness to this artist's remarkable talent and ability to design and execute works in a masterful style. Bosch can draw anything and his subject matter ranges from a camel driver to persimmons, from an abandoned Bysantine Church to an old circus clown.

There are 33 oils and watercolors in this collection and it offers the public an excellent opportunity to see the expert work of a living American artist. The exhibition will be on view until March. It is open Mondays through Fridays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and also for one hour before each performance in the Sunset Center Theatre. The Bosch exhibit is being Continued on page 6

Students give demonstration

Fourteen students from Bay View School participated in a demonstration Wednesday, Feb. 6, of basic electricity, electronic games, and crystals radios at the monthly district MGM teachers' meeting at the IMC.

The participants had put together kits for which they took orders from the MGM teachers with the help of Mary Ann Kane, MGM Coordinator. The class hopes to raise money to go on an excursion to the Lawrence Hall of Science at Berkeley in April.

Students participating from the sixth grade were: Dan

Everitt, Master of Ceremonies; Alan Yoshida and Bob Shintoni, radio sets; Mark Sutton and Van Johnson, soldering; and Tom Nethken, electronic games. Fifth grader Leila Sepahpour represented her class.

Fourth grade participants were: David Black and Greg DeFlumear, Bell and Key Kit; Kim Kambestad, Basic Electricity. Third Graders were: Esther Merrill, business manager; with Angie Cricchio and Michelle King, clip lead soldering. Second grader John Wilber demonstrated perforated board soldering.

Soldier gets commendation

Spec. 4 Charles "Chuck" Wescoat, a motion picture photographer assigned to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Instrumental (Pictorial branch) with the U.S. Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC) has been presented a letter of commendation for attaining an exceptionally high score on his October military occupational specialty (MOS) test.

The letter notes that he "...equaled or exceeded the highest score made by any other soldier in the Army tested in his primary MOS during the 1974 testing period."

The award, from Brig. Gen. Charles Heiden, director of enlisted personnel for the Army Military Personnel Center, congratulates Wescoat for his "depth of knowledge with...outstanding duty performance."

The 22-year-old soldier was assigned to CDEC in mid-August after serving as an instructor in motion picture photography at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wescoat, 9148 Forest Dr., Fairview Heights, Ill.

ARMY AVIATION STAFFERS got their first close-up of the Sikorsky YUH-60A during a display at Fritzsche Army Airfield. The new machine, a forerunner of the UTTAS (Utility Tactical Transport Aircraft System), carries a crew of three and a payload of 11 troops or six litters.

New helicopter previewed at Fort Ord

Members of the Fort Ord community got a sneak preview of Sikorsky's latest addition to their helicopter line at a recent Fritzsche Field showing.

Officially tagged as YUH-60A, the Utility Tactical Transport Aircraft System (UTTAS) is one of the leading contenders to replace the UH-1H (Iroquois) in the Army inventory.

Gross weight of the new craft is 15,859 pounds with an overall length of 51 feet. It carries a crew of three and a payload of 11 troops or six litters at a speed of 160 knots.

Ronald H. Merritt, senior marketing analyst for Sikorsky Aircraft, said crashworthiness tests show that a pilot could walk away from a 2,500 foot-per-minute descent.

Landing skids of conventional helicopters have been replaced on the new craft by wheels for better weight displacement, and the tail wheel permits high-angle landings. "This makes for safer taxiing over rough terrain because the rear wheel keeps the tail rotor well above the ground," Merritt explained.

Maintenance problems have been reduced by sealed gear boxes, a cross-beam tail rotor which is free of bearings and seals, and a rotor head which requires no lubrication and reduces maintenance by up to 60 per cent, according to the manufacturer.

Other innovations include aft-swept blade tips which increase speed and maneuverability, and a modular design utilized in

NOTICE OF FILING APPLICATION FOR INCREASES FOR INTRASTATE TELEPHONE RATES

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company on February 13, 1975 filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California an application for authority to increase certain intrastate rates and charges applicable to telephone service furnished within the State of California. The proposed rate increases would permit Pacific to recover increases in operating costs, principally increased wages, for the twelve month period ending June 30, 1976.

In general terms, the proposed rate changes are as follows:

Basic exchange rates would be increased for both residence and business telephone service. For residence the monthly increase would range from $.55 to $.80 per main telephone, except for 30 message allowance service, where an increase of $.35 is proposed. An increase ranging from $1.05 to $2.05 is proposed per main business telephone. Foreign exchange service rates and PBX trunk rates would be increased generally in the same proportion as main station rates. Certain Centrex and Airport Intercommunicating System service rates would be increased to maintain relationship with basic exchange rates.

The message unit charge for multi-message unit messages would be increased from $.05 to $.057 per unit. Foreign exchange service and coin-box service message unit charges would increase from $.06 to $.07.

The single local message charge for exchange messages placed from message rate telephones would increase from $.05 to $.057. Foreign exchange local message unit charges would increase from $.06 to $.07.

Establish a charge for superservice of basic exchange service of $.70 for residence service and $.15.00 for business service.

Implement a charge for the restoration of basic exchange service temporarily discontinued for non-payment of bills. This charge would be 50 per cent of the in-place service connection charge.

Non-recurring charges for the establishment of certain Private Line services would be increased.

The rates proposed in the application are estimated to produce additional annual gross revenue of $131,200,000, which represents a 5 per cent increase in total local and toll intrastate revenues. This is in addition to the $97,900,000 rate application (No. 55214) filed in 1974, which was to recover increases in the costs of wage, salary and related expenses for the twelve months ending June 30, 1975.

Notice of hearings on the application will be posted and published not less than five nor more than thirty days prior to the initial hearing.

The Company's proposed rates would become effective in various California counties and municipal corporations, including the County of MONTEREY and the Cities of SEASIDE AND SAND CITY, upon grant of authority therefor by the California Public Utilities Commission.

A copy of the application may be inspected by any interested person in the office of The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company at 787 MUNRAS AVENUE, MONTEREY, California, and in the offices of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California, Fifth Floor, State Building, Civic Center, San Francisco, California, and State Office Building, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California.

Put these tips and some spare fuses near your fuse box.

With a flashlight, they may help should your lights go out.

Be Prepared. Know where your fuse boxes or circuit breakers are located.

Locate the main switch box—usually near the spot where the PG&E electric service wires connect to your house, or near your PG&E electric meter. Locate any additional box or boxes—usually in a closet or utility room. Keep spare fuses handy.

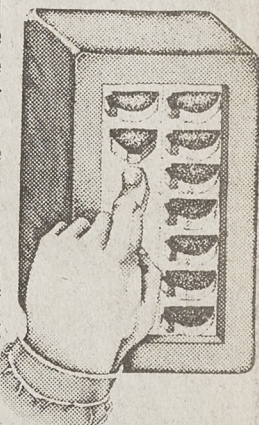

also blown. Check these fuses in the same way you checked the fuses at the main switch.

Cartridge Fuses. Be sure the main switch is "OFF" while you are changing cartridge fuses. You won't be able to visually tell exactly which cartridge fuse is blown. In this case, test by safely replacing each fuse with a new one until you find the blown fuse.

To Reset a Circuit Breaker. A tripped circuit breaker will probably be out of the "ON" position. Move the affected circuit breaker handle all the way to the "OFF" position (for some circuit breakers, a moderate pressure in the "OFF" direction is necessary to cause them to reset). Then, move the handle to the "ON" position. If the affected circuit breaker does not indicate that it has tripped (its handle has not moved from the "ON" position), and you do not know which circuit breaker controls the affected circuit, try resetting all circuit breakers.

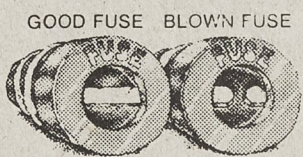

Check the Neighbors. If your lights should go out, check to see if other homes in your neighborhood have lights. If the power is off in your home only, you may have a blown fuse or tripped circuit breaker.

Determine the Cause. Blown fuses or tripped circuit breakers are often caused by having too many lamps or appliances connected to one outlet or circuit. Another possibility is a defective cord on a lamp or appliance. To check, unplug all lamps or appliances on the affected circuit, looking for defective plugs or cords while doing so. Replace the blown fuse or re-set the tripped circuit breaker, following the procedures given below. Then plug each lamp or appliance back in. A defective one will cause the fuse to blow, or circuit breaker to trip, again.

To Replace a Fuse. First turn the main switch to "OFF." Make sure that your hands are dry and that you are standing on a dry surface. Look for the "blown" fuse; the "window" may be blackened, or there may be a visible gap in the fuse element. Replace the blown fuse with one of the proper amperage rating, usually one of not more than 15-20 amps. Never use a penny or other metal object to "bridge" the blown fuse, as this could cause a house fire. Turn the main switch to "ON." If only part of the lights in the house come on, this may indicate that a fuse in a branch fuse box has still plugged in. Make sure that electric tools are properly grounded (with a 3-prong plug), or are of the U.L. approved "double-insulated" type. When you unplug an appliance, pull the plug—not the cord.

Some Added Safety Tips. Never plug in electrical appliances near bathtubs or basins. Never wash coffee pots or frying pans while they are Still in the Dark? If you've followed all of these procedures and you're still in the dark, don't hesitate to call PG&E. We'll be happy to help.

February 19, at 7:30 p.m., to show the new exemplary media center established through a combination of Monterey Peninsula Unified School District and federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Title II funds. The center became operational in September, 1974 after remodeling of the existing area during the summer. Teachers, parents, and students selected materials purchased through $52,230 in federal funds.

Included are books, magazines, micro film, projectors, filmstrips, recordings, slides, transparencies, maps and globes, charts, art and study prints. District funds of $16,000 were allocated for equipment, remodeling, and personnel, which is one media technician.

Principal Bernard De Costa cordially invites the public to see an example of a new center utilizing many educational materials.

Saturday, March 1 from 8 p.m. to 12 p.m. at the Rancho Canada Golf Club in Carmel Valley.

Fun for all will be offered in the way of games, live music for dancing, a tasty buffet prepared by Zonta members, beautiful and valuable prizes on auction and libations of your choosing, for the price of $6 per person. Tickets may be purchased at the door from any Zonta member.

Proceeds from Zonta's Monte Carlo might are used for scholarships for students from the Monterey Peninsula and aiding the local Low Vision Clinic of Pacific Grove. The public is invited to attend this affair for a fun-filled evening and to help the local Zonta Club to help others. Kappa Gamma Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha

Sorority plans Mardi Grass Ball

Sorority presents its First Annual Mardi Gras Ball, Feb. 22 at the Exhibit Hall at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. The Bob Cardwell Movement will provide music for listening and dancing.

As an added attraction, members of the Sorority will entertain with a program commemorating some of the most outstanding black women in history. Also, many valuable prizes donated by local merchants will be raffled off during the evening. Tickets are on sale at Abinante's on Alvarado Street in downtown Monterey and at Lily Walker's on Lighthouse in Pacific Grove. All proceeds will go into a Scholarship Fund to be presented to a local student at the end of the school year.

In the Sunset Center Theatre foyer the exhibit, arranged by art supervisor, William Stone, Jr., shows a wide assortment of work done by students in art classes of the Carmel High School. The moods, the techniques, the color ranges are so varied as to make description impossible; but here is a show to demonstrate to the community how eclectic is the work being produced by our young people in our hometown high school.
